PROGRESS AT THE SOUTH.

Whatever may be said in regard to the business situation in other sections of the country, it is quite certain that for the South the indications leaves nathing to be desired. The fact of the matter is, in the judgment of our wisest financiers, it has been thoroughly established that the southern States now afford a field for financial operations unrivalled in the inviting aspect of present conditions and promising for the future almost infinite possibilities for development. In no part of the cour-try is more satisfactory progress being made, and it is evident enough that as the manifold of advantages that section come to be more generally realized by all classes of people, population and capital will be drawn thither with constantly increasing attraction and the work of advancement will move forward with increasing rapidly.

To our mind the surprising development of the industrial arts in the southern States is the leading factor in domestic history since the war. The phrase "the New South" is not a new one, but it carries with it an emphasis one, but it carries with it never had two lives. A frightful cough had long medicine and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this meaning today which it never had of meaning today which it never had before. What a remarkable example of versatility, of conformity to new and strange conditions, of smazing energy, is presented in the new chapter of southern history begun in 1865! The world has not seen its

The old theory of an almost exclusive devotion to agriculture as the staple employment, has given place to very successful experiments in manufacture made on a large scale and prosecuted with such energy and with such advantages of location and other condition as threaten the supremacy of the northern States in some industries. Truly a golden prospect lies before the industrious and capable people of the south. The next quarter of a century will witness great development in that section, of the cotton, iron, steel, word working, shipbuilding and other inenormous capital and can be carried on most successfully, as a matter of course, where raw material is procured most easily.

These reflections are suggested by some facts that have recently come to hand in regard to the work that is b. band in regard to the work that is bing done by the enterprising and progressive city of Alexandria, Va., Washington's next door neighbor, so to speak. This city, which numbers some 20,000 to 25,000 inhabitants, has remurkable advantages of various kinds, and a number of public spirited citizens are associated together under the style of the Business Mens League, the offi-cers and directors thereof being Mr. M. B. Harlow, President; Julian T. Burke, 1st Vice-President; J Clinton Smoot, 2d Vice-President; Wm. F. Carne, Secretary; Jno. W. May, Treasurer. Directors—George R. Hill, Park Agnew, Caarles King, Clarence C. Leadbeater, Gardner L. Boothe, Asbby Miller, Noble Lindsey, Isaac Eichberg and Henry E. Robertson.

F. Robertson This league is doing work whose importance cannot be overestimated. It is exploiting, in various ways, the advantages of the c ty from a manufacturing point of view, and offers free sites, on railroad or water connections, to manufacturers wishing to locate there.

An official announcement now before us states that under the municipal law capital and machinery actively employed are exempt from local taxation. There are excellent opportuni-ties for a shipbuilding plant, a foundry, pipe works, chair, spoke and handle and canning factories, knitting and silk mills, brick, tile and car works. The Southern, the Baltimore & Otio, the Pennsylvania, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western Railways, and steamers to Baltimore, Philadel-phia, New York, Boston, with connection by way of Washington and Nor-folk with Charleston, Savannah, Jack-sonville, New Orleans and Galveston, give Alexandria facilities for distributing manufactured goods equal to any in the country.

Alexandria is advantageously situated upon the Potomac river, six miles south of Washington, D. C. It has a channel to the Chesapeake bay twenty two feet deep, which will shortly be in-creased to twenty-six feet under an appropriation made at the last session of Congress.

Herein, it seems to us, lies an opportunity which many of the manufacturers who read this paper might do well to embrace. Labor is cheaper than at the North or East, and handsome profits an be made even in the face of keen competition. The rank of Virginia in this nation of great Commonwealths is relatively higher as her splendid resources behigher as her splendid resources become better known. In geographical Claud M. Lennon and Richard Gibson, situation she is enviably fortunate, the happy possessor of a mild and healthy climate, perfecting the wealth due to her fertility. And the salubriousness of the State, which is known so well that to mention it cannot be necessary, is promoted by the character of the soil in large areas, affording the very MILD OREAM CHEESE just received by wealth of Virginia is increasingly the resort of a fine class of people, appreciating the best there is in life; and, many of them, taking advantage of the abundance of raw materials in the State, become her citizens. There they live well and they live cheaply; and all the really good and desirable things for body, mind and spirit are at their command.

We observe the expansion of the in- Age nor Condition. terests of Alexandria with pleased gratification. It represents that wholesome expression of progress which diffuses happiness among all sorts and condi-tions of people, and is materially augmenting her population with excellent citizens and their families. The interest which every good citizen must feel accompany his acquaint-ance with the operations of the Alexan-dria Business Men's League is enhanced by the knowledge that it lies within his power to assist those operations by means profitable and in every way advantageous to his own affairs. We accordingly commend, very heartily, an early communication with President M. B. Harlow or his colleagues, by parsons seeking really excellent means of investment.-[Commercial and Financial World.
